The local experience!

The Ledgelets Cottage Colony

Located in Somerset, this charming cottage colony is run by my fabulous friend Alison and her husband John (the property has been in their family since the 1930s, and John's family has lived in Somerset for over 275 years). The Bermudian duo knows everything there is to know about the island, and will be your ultimate source of intel if you have the pleasure of staying at their piece of paradise. From secret fish markets to the best Bermudian pubs and where to play croquet, they can direct you to experiences only locals have access to!
